

Hughes Says Borah's Charge of Secret Pact Is "Absolutely False"

WASHINGTON.—The American government entered into no understandings or agreements during the arms conference that were not embodied in treaty form and made public, it was stated at the white house in connection with charges in the senate that an understanding had been reached between the United States and Great Britain relative to action in the Pacific.

The charge of a secret agreement was described as outrageous and unthinkable. It was further declared inconceivable that the American government should invite the Japanese to a conference and then be perfidious enough to turn around and make a secret agreement antagonistic to her.

WASHINGTON.—Presentation in the senate Tuesday of a letter from Secretary Hughes denying fully that any secret agreement exists for future British-American co-operation in the Pacific, was another effort by opponents of the four-power treaty to send it back to committee.

The effort brought on a warm debate. The secretary's letter, characterizing suggestion of such an agreement as "absolutely false," was laid before the senate by Senator Lodge, the republican leader, and a member of the arms delegation, who at the same time put into the record a telegram from Paul D. Cravath, the New York attorney, denying the accuracy of a statement on the same subject attributed to him by Senator Borah.

According to the report read by Senator Borah, Mr. Cravath gave as authority for his statements, every member of the American delegation, adding that, while he had not talked with the members of the British delegation, he knew definitely the American view of the matter was also the view of A. J. Balfour and the other British delegates to the Washington conference. In part the remarks which it is asserted Mr. Cravath made at a dinner of the council on foreign relations held in New York on February 17 were in the form of answers to questions asked by Mr. Cravath by Norman H. Davis, who was under secretary of state in the Wilson administration.

The reading into the record of Mr. Cravath's alleged utterances, precipitated a debate which for bitterness has not been approached since the four-power treaty was placed before the senate for ratification. Senator Underwood, taking the leadership of the treaty forces, branded the statements alleged to have been made by Mr. Cravath as false from beginning to end.

"To let it go out," he said, "that the American delegation—the only agents authorized to speak in this matter except the president of the United States himself—had deliberately signed a peace contract with the empire of Japan, and then had entered into a secret agreement with the government of Great Britain, would be infamous if it were true. I say it is absolutely untrue, and I would call it by the stronger name, which it deserves, if I was not speaking on the floor of the senate of the United States."

The letter was sent to Senator Lodge for presentation to the senate. Senator Lodge also received a telegram Tuesday from Paul D. Cravath, prominent New York lawyer, denying statements attributed to him by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, regarding the existence of the alleged secret understanding.

FIGHT OVER POOLING ISSUE EXPECTED AT GRAIN MEN'S MEETING

CHICAGO.—A warm fight over the 100 percent pooling issue was anticipated as the first annual convention of the U. S. Grain Growers' Inc., a co-operative farmers marketing organization, got under way Tuesday.

While some members of the board of directors were quoted as saying the 100 percent pool plan was a dead issue, others were known to favor it and in some quarters it was expected pooling would be one of the principal questions before the gathering.

Upon the outcome of the pooling issue it was indicated, depended the possible amalgamation with other co-operative marketing agencies, many of which are committed to the 100 percent pool with the American Wheat Growers' Association, just organized to operate on this plan in ten states. The convention this morning was devoted largely to routine matters with the address of C. H. Gustafson of Lincoln, Neb. president, this afternoon.

AIR COMPRESSOR AT COURTHOUSE BURNS; CLOCKS ARE STOPPED

Clocks in all offices in the courthouse, except the master clock in the county clerk's office, failed to register Tuesday morning when the courthouse was opened for the day Tuesday because a fire somewhere during the night had destroyed the air compression system in the boiler room.

The clocks stopped at 10:45 a. m. Val Weimer, superintendent of the courthouse, is unable to account for the fire, except to state that it occurred somewhere between 5 p. m. and 10:45 p. m. All wooden parts of the compressor were burned and the motors practically ruined by the heat.

ISSUE ORDER FOR GENERAL COAL STRIKE

Formal Call for Walk-out in Both Hard and Soft Coal Fields Sent Out by Miners' Union

SURPLUS OF COAL ON HAND IS LARGEST EVER STORED IN U. S.

No Anxiety Felt at Washington Over Possibility of Immediate Strike

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—A formal call for a strike of anthracite and bituminous coal miners on April 1 was sent out Tuesday from the headquarters here of the United Mine Workers of America.

Copies of the call were placed in the mails for delivery to officials of all the union's 3,000 local organizations scattered throughout the country. The text of the call was not made public here in the absence of all officials of the union.

While the call was referred to by union employees here as a strike order, it was understood to have provided for a suspension of work in the anthracite field, at least pending negotiations. For the bituminous fields it was also said the call provided for pumpmen, engineers and others remaining at work after April 1 to protect the mines.

NEW YORK.—The order for a suspension of work in the anthracite and bituminous coal mines throughout the country affecting about 600,000 miners, will be issued late Tuesday afternoon, according to Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mr. Murray declined to discuss any details of the order before that time. Its issuance coincides with the first meeting of the sub-committee of anthracite miners and operators to draw up a new wage contract for the one expiring March 31. In their demands served on the operators about a week ago the miners, in addition to demanding a 20 per cent increase in wages, declared that a suspension of work would follow the failure of the sub-committee to come to an agreement before April 1. It is generally conceded that no new agreement will be reached before that date.

The operators, in their reply to the miners' demands, declared a reduction in wages was essential but set no definite figure.

Big Stock on Hand

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Apprehension of the industrial situation which might result from the strike, it was said, has resulted in the accumulation of probably the largest surplus of coal ever stored in the United States, while prices of coal in the mining district had showed no signs of increasing and in fact remained at a point lower than in the previous five years.

Consequently it was the official view that no anxiety need be occasioned regarding the available coal supply for a period of several weeks.

KRUPP DIRECTOR GERMANY'S CHOICE AS ENVOY TO U. S.

Noted Industrialist and Man of Great Wealth is Dr. Wiedfeldt

NEEDED MAN OF MEANS TO HOLD UP HIS END

New Appointee also Experienced Foreign Official

BERLIN.—By The Associated Press.—Dr. Otto Ludwig Wiedfeldt has been appointed German ambassador to the United States.

Dr. Wiedfeldt will fill the post which has been vacant since February, 1917, when Count von Bernstorff left Washington prior to the declaration of a state of war between the United States and Germany. Since the resumption of normal relations between the two countries the question of naming a new ambassador has been one of the knottiest problems confronting the German government.

In addition to diplomatic experience it was necessary that the incumbent be wealthy, as the exceedingly low value of the German mark will place him at a financial disadvantage in the American capital.

WOMEN ARE BARRED FROM COURTROOM IN TRIAL OF RICKARD

NEW YORK.—Tex Rickard, internationally known sport promoter, who has been locked up in the Tombs during his trial on a charge of criminally assaulting 15-year-old Sarah Schoenfeld, entered the courtroom Tuesday after having spent the night with Alfred Lindsay, alleged swindler of society women, as a cell mate. Rickard was up bright and early. He ordered a hearty breakfast and on reaching court spent several minutes chatting with newspapermen while Judge Wasservogel conferred with opposing counsel.

Monday's announcement that no women would be admitted unless they had been subpoenaed thinned today's crowd materially.

With eight jurors tentatively selected, the task of examining witnesses was continued.

MILLIONS COLLECTED BY U. S. IN INCOME TAX TO BE RETURNED

WASHINGTON.—Millions of dollars in income tax collected by the government must be refunded, according to an interpretation by Internal Revenue Collector Blair of the supreme court decision in the case of Smetanka, collector, against the First Trust & Savings bank of Chicago, officials said Tuesday.

The supreme court held that income held and accumulated by a trustee for the benefit of unborn or unascertained persons was not taxable. The bureau, it was explained, had been holding such income taxable and such cases generally involved large estates. It was believed that the refunds made necessary would run into the millions.

STATE WOULD TRY BURCH, MADALYNNE IN JOINT ACTION

PROSECUTOR INVESTIGATES RUMOR OF JURY TAMPERING

May Call Clergyman Reported to Have Talked to Woman Juror

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Whether the second trials of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain and A. C. Burch jointly indicted for the murder of her former sweetheart, J. B. Kenney, would be held jointly or separately was expected to be decided in the superior court here Tuesday.

Each has been tried once separately and in each case the jury disagreed. Burch's second trial is set to begin March 27 and Tuesday has been fixed for the time of setting the second trial of Mrs. Obenchain.

Announcement from the district attorney's office is that the state will move that the second trials be held jointly.

Had Beaton if Once

What attitude the defense will take has not been announced but a fight against such a procedure before either trial was held, and won.

It was stated the district attorney's office had begun an investigation of the disagreement Sunday in the case of Mrs. Obenchain after three of the jurors had reported that three others, who had voted for her acquittal while nine favored conviction, had refused to listen to any arguments in the jury room.

Minister Talked to Juror

In this connection it was announced a prominent Los Angeles minister would be summoned to the district attorney's office to tell what he might know of the report he had had conversations with one of the women on the jury and offered prayers for her guidance. The same woman was said to have met and talked with Ralph R. Obenchain, former husband and present counsel for the defendant, in the course of the trial.

GILLETT AGREES TO SUSPEND RULE TO VOTE THURSDAY

House Leaders Believe that Harding Will Not Veto the Bill

DEMOCRATS MAY SEEK TO REPLACE CASH PLAN

Two-thirds Necessary to Pass Measure Held Sure

WASHINGTON.—The soldiers' bonus will be taken up by the house Thursday under suspension of the rules under a plan agreed upon Tuesday at a conference between Speaker Gillett and Chairman Campbell of the rules committee.

The speaker, it was said, has agreed to entertain a motion to suspend the rules. Mr. Campbell said he would call a meeting of his committee Wednesday morning, at which he will ask the committee members to report a rule designating Thursday as suspension day, with a provision that four hours debate on the bill shall be provided.

Need Two-Thirds

Under this procedure a two-thirds majority would be necessary to pass the bill. No amendments would be permitted nor would it be possible to make a motion to recommit the measure to the ways and means committee.

Those in charge of the legislation were confident it would receive more than the two-thirds majority. They expected the vote to come before adjournment Thursday after two hours of discussion on each side.

The rule will have to be agreed to by a majority of the rules committee and then will have to obtain a majority could be obtained.

May Ask Cash Plan

Under the special rule, in amendments were shut off, a motion to recommit would be in order and democrats in that event are prepared to move to recommit with instructions to replace the loan provision of the bill with its original cash payment feature. If such a motion prevailed it would reopen the whole question of financing the bonus.

Harding Will Sign?

Although he declined to commit himself Monday, President Harding will sign a soldier bonus bill of the character now proposed, in the opinion of Republican house leaders who conferred with him at the White House Monday morning.

May Bar Amendment

Speaker Gillett said the proposition had narrowed down to whether the bill should be put on its passage without opportunity for amendment or with opportunity for motion from the democratic side and that he was inclined to think it would be better not to permit the democrats to offer the one motion. In this connection he called attention to the minority report on the bill prepared by Representative Kitchen of North Carolina and some other members of the ways and means committee in which it was urged that the excess profits and high surtaxes be restored.

Mr. Gillett explained that the procedure would be to recognize Chairman Campbell to present the rule to make Thursday suspension day and upon adoption of that rule Chairman Fordney would be recognized for a motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill. Democratic leaders and opponents of the bonus measure were expected to make a fight against adoption of the rule and as there would be four hours' debate on the bill itself the final vote would be delayed until late Thursday. The speaker said, however, that it was the plan to "clean the whole thing up" in one day.

BADGER SOLONS GATHERING IN MADISON FOR SPECIAL SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

FIVE BILLS READY FOR PRESENTATION IN BOTH HOUSES

Legislature Will be Called Together at Ten O'clock
Wednesday

MADISON, Wis.—The advance guard of the legislature came to Madison Tuesday morning. Senator H. J. Severson, Waupesa county, who will introduce the secrecy repeal bill in the upper house of the legislature and Assemblyman John L. Dahl, Barron, arrived in the morning. Governor Blaine had planned to have a conference with them before noon.

All is in readiness for the session. The legislative reference library, under the direction of Governor Blaine, has prepared the five bills for introduction in each house, besides the perfunctory resolutions that must be drafted to perfect the legislative organization in each house.

The whole legislature must be organized as if it were meeting anew. Assemblyman Riley S. Young, Barab, will be chosen as speaker. C. H. Shaffer will be named as chief clerk and T. C. Cretney as sergeant-at-arms in the house. In the senate, if O. G. Munson, Vilas, is back in the state, he will be chosen as chief clerk of the senate. Otherwise it is likely that Charles Mullen, his first assistant, may be named. Vincent Kieppinski, Milwaukee, will be named as sergeant.

Late Tuesday afternoon the assembly corridors begin to look like a homecoming. It was stated that the Milwaukee delegations would not come into the city until Wednesday morning, but most of the members of both houses from the northern part of the state are already here.

Four prominent members of the lower house were absent among the members Tuesday. Three assemblymen have resigned to accept federal positions and one is dead. Assemblyman George Onkes, St. Croix county, has resigned to become postmaster of New Richmond. Assemblyman Clark M. Perry, Oscoda, resigned to become federal prohibition commissioner and Assemblyman John Torfeld, Manitowish county, resigned to become postmaster of Cleveland. Assemblyman Elmer A. Kenyon, Gilman, died about ten days ago.

The fight over the governor's program will come in the senate. The Severson secrecy bill was defeated in the senate at the last session by a vote of 12 to 16. The governor's friends are cognizant of the fact that the main contest will come in the upper house.

Indications here are to the effect that there will be no opposition to the four bills of the governor's program for the auditing of back returns and restoring the soldiers' educational fund. The big fight and the only fight is coming over the repeal of the secrecy clause. The legislature will convene at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and it is expected that the governor will be able to deliver his message before noon.

Governor Blaine has completed his message. It will take about 1,000 words. Governor Blaine said Tuesday that he believed the session would be concluded this week.

APPOINTMENT OF JUSTICE HELD UP BY EXTRA SESSION

MADISON, Wis.—Appointment of a supreme court justice to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Chief Justice Robert C. Siebeck, is expected to be held up until after the special session of the legislature which meets tomorrow.

It was thought that Governor Blaine would select a justice before the court met March 14, but with no appointment at that time it is now believed that he will wait until after the time the court sits, April 11. A justice appointed at this time would not receive the oaths until the next session.

The names of Judge E. Ray Stevens of the Dane county circuit court and of C. H. Crowhart, revisor of statutes, are the two most probable appointees, are still mentioned.

Governor Blaine has not indicated when he will make his selection or who he is to choose.

Bran Will Free Your Entire Family from Constipation!

EIGHT MILLION PEOPLE were admitted to the hospitals of America last year. Nine-tenths of the sickness can be traced to constipation. If every man, woman and child would eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, each day, nine-tenths of all sickness would be eliminated. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is not a "remedy." It is nature's health food. Bran acts as a sweeper, at the same time cleansing and purifying without irritation or discomfort. Results are astounding! Physicians endorse the use of Kellogg's Bran for constipation because it corrects constipation as a food—not as a "remedy." Your physician will tell you that the desirable way to relieve constipation is through food. We guarantee Kellogg's Bran will relieve constipation permanently if at least two table-spoonsful are eaten regularly. Chronic cases should use as much more as necessary. When Kellogg's Bran is eaten regularly it will also clear up a pimply complexion and sweeten the breath. And, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is deliciously good! Kellogg's has an appetizing nut-like flavor, is crisp and adds zest to any food with which it is eaten. Or, it's just fine to eat as a cereal. Or sprinkle it over your favorite cereal, raisin bread, macaroons, pancakes and in a hundred other palate-tickling ways—and all the time building health! Start the children eating Kellogg's Bran. It will actually increase their growth. Get it at your grocer's.

Much Adoo About Nothing

ON the basis of a speech in New York by a New York lawyer, who expressed pleasure over the fact that under the treaties of the armament conference the combined English and American fleets in Asiatic waters would be more than large enough to handle the Japanese fleet, Senator Borah made a speech in the senate Monday alleging a "secret pact" between the United States and Great Britain against Japan. The basis of his charge is the following quotation from the lawyer's speech:

"I have been told by every member of the American delegation, and while I haven't been told by every member of the British delegation, I know definitely that the view is held by Mr. Balfour, and I think by every other member of the British delegation, that the result of the Washington conference has been not a formal agreement by any means, but an understanding, and such a degree of understanding and such a basis of sympathy has been created between Great Britain and the United States that both sides in all future emergencies can both count on having the closest co-operation."

Granting for the sake of argument that this will bear the interpretation placed upon it by Senator Borah, and granting further that the statement of a lawyer who had no connection with the conference is sufficient proof of an international "pact", one nevertheless fails to discover here any menace to this country. What is the disaster impending to this country in having the "co-operation" of Great Britain in case of trouble between us and Japan? Was there not still greater danger to us in the treaty—not a "basis of sympathy" but an actual bond-and-fast treaty—by which Britain was bound to support Japan in the Pacific? That was the Anglo-Japanese alliance which the four-power treaty destroyed. Would Mr. Borah seek safety for his country in a return to that condition in the Pacific? Or would he prefer a building race to the great scaling-down of naval expense which was conditioned upon the four-power treaty? Perhaps Mr. Borah might regard all this as statesmanship and good policy, but we very much doubt if the majority of the citizenship of the country would not think it a very high price to pay for a very doubtful degree of safety.

Particularly flimsy is his argument, moreover, when one realizes the flimsiness of the foundation upon which it is built. In the first place, Senator Borah is deliberately exaggerating when he reads into the lawyer's remarks the meaning that an actual "secret pact" was agreed upon by the British and American delegates. "Understanding" and "basis of sympathy" do not mean that—they might mean almost anything, including a "secret pact" were there any real evidence to contradict the solemn word of Secretary Hughes, the president, and the rest of the American delegates. But there is no such evidence. We are justified, under any rule of proof, in accepting the testimony of reputable witnesses who were on the ground as amply destroying the mere suspicions, depending entirely on assertion, which Mr. Borah introduces.

Mr. Borah takes the statement of a man no better informed upon the inside workings of the armament conference than any other close student of public affairs, twists it into a meaning which it can only bear by a stretch of imagination—and produces it upon the floor of the senate as a serious argument that the people of the United States have been betrayed by their elected leaders. That is not only unfair and dishonest—it is vicious and silly.

A Flapper Flaps

MISS EDNA TAYLOR, college student, daughter of wealth, all of a sudden got tired of her life of more or less studious ease. "Possessed of a great satiety," as she said, she vanished from the University of Chicago and got a job as cook. Five days later she turned up again. She had been a poor cook. Her adventure in independence was over. Her comment on the experience, as she smoked a chain of cigarettes and talked to reporters, was that she had had a "perfectly sick time". Miss Taylor seems a fairly typical example of some of the consequences of American civilization. She had a stirring of real strength in her, or she would not have taken her flapper in work and independence. But she was inefficient, untrained, ignorant of any useful accomplishment. As a worker she couldn't make good. Within five days after her impulsive bolt her training in luxury and irresponsibility reasserted itself and she came back to the world of wealthy flapperdom with its cigarettes and modish slang. Her adventure, instead of being an assertion of strength, degenerated into a mere escapade. Probably her great-grand-mother would have done better all the way through. She could not have quoted Freud and Nietzsche, but if she had undertaken a job as cook she undoubtedly could have put a dinner on the table unburned. She would probably have been too much of a "lady" to run away from home and family, but if she had been cast on her own resources she could have made a living and been of some productive usefulness wherever her luck might have placed her. Civilization has made life much easier, made wealth more plentiful. But it is a serious question whether it has not done as much harm to individual character in many cases as the good it has done the community at large. Ease weakens mental and moral fiber. Mental and moral fiber is what enables a race to build up a civilization. Lack of it, history says, spells the down-grade of a civilization. How to prevent the decadence of luxury is the existence problem of modern civilization. Examples like Miss Taylor's, or that of young Dodge, show that it is a real problem.

To the Good

RUMORS that President Harding has decided to sign the bonus bill if it should pass congress in its present form promise the removal of a threatened liability to the credit side of the ledger the nation is keeping on the administration record. Alongside of the disarmament conference and the treaties that sprung from that meeting it makes a tidy balance to the good. On the other side of the account it might have made trouble, for the American voter is prone to overlook the good in his servants' records if there is an outstanding fault to be punished. The powerful group of ex-service men will undoubtedly place the bonus bill in the forefront of its estimate of political qualifications for the next election. The president, if he shall accept the bonus bill, passes the responsibility on to congress. That is where it belongs. Congressmen who have supported the bill to aid their re-election in the belief the president would veto it, thus clearing themselves either way, are by the reported attitude of Mr. Harding required to make a real decision. It is right that they should. Ducking and dodging is one of the main troubles with the legislative branch of the government.

Will

JOSEPH B. EDWARDS, wealthy New Yorker, leaves a fortune for disabled soldiers. The Red Cross will handle the spending, which means it will be spent wisely and scientifically. No will, probated in this year 1922, will do more good than Edwards' legacy to the maimed veterans. Mark him down as a valuable citizen, his death an incalculable loss to the nation.

Roy's Punishment

By JANE USEORN

"It's real punishment for Sally," that is what Mrs. Burton told Prof. Burton early on the afternoon of one of their at-home in late winter. "Every Friday afternoon she has to stay at home, to pour tea for a handful of miserable, tongue-tied students, while the other girls who know skate or play hockey or something."

"But I thought Sally liked students," protested Prof. Burton as he assisted in the preparations of the comfortably furnished drawing room of the Burton household for the undergraduate at-home.

Mrs. Burton said that of course Sally liked students, but there were students that would choose to come to afternoon tea at the house of a philosophically professor's wife and not to the house of a philosopher's wife. "You know it's part of the new system," explained Prof. Burton. "We give the students these opportunities of hearing better acquainted with us socially. There are some of the students who are really at a disadvantage because of their lack of familiarity with our social system. That is why they seem tongue-tied and bashful. They are rather left out of the undergraduate social life—that's why it's so important for us to give them this chance to bring them out and give them confidence in themselves."

"Oh, I don't mind," said Mrs. Burton. "I know Sally's popular. She has one and sometimes two or three chances to go to every game of tennis in the college and to every dance. It's unfair to make her give up every Friday afternoon to pour tea for a handful of other things to do."

"It won't hurt Sally," was all the comment that Prof. Burton would give, and then he did not say anything more. The first student came. He was what Sally spoke of as a "regular". He never missed a Friday, sat on the same chair, always dropped his spoon or glass, and came near dropping his cup and saucer, too, when he was faced with the embarrassing situation of being offered tea. But he never said a word. He was holding his first place in his right hand and his tea cup in his left.

Some of the students were showing improvement under the tutelage of Mrs. Burton and the kindly hospitality of her wife. Some of them even seemed to be getting so they enjoyed these afternoons. There was the glow of the open fire and candles burning on the mantel, and the twilight came. Sometimes Sally played and once or twice she had sung a little, something very sedate or classical. Prof. Burton never said a word to those who came to the at-home in the classroom in a casual manner that seemed to give the students immense satisfaction. Yates arrived. He had been coming for a month, and he too, always did practically the same thing, although he showed no evident confusion. He bowed and shook hands with formal and pronounced courtesy to Mrs. Burton, bowed and bowed to Sally and then took a seat on the window seat—where for the rest of the afternoon he sat, looking nothing but comfortable with fairly good breeding.

Prof. Burton had taken his quiet moment, and had sought this means of getting better acquainted. "Oh, that was funny," replied Roy's roommate. "We had a penicillin in the waste basket one day and nearly set the house on fire. Something had to be done. So we set a thing to do to make a penicillin. I'm sorry to have to tell you for punishment. One of the conditions was that he must drink only cold water. He never took a drink of anything but water, and never took a drink of anything but water."

"Oh, I'm so glad," cried Sally. "I never want to see a man who doesn't have a sweet tooth!" (Copyright, 1922, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

ONE REEL YARNS

THE YOUNG GENTLEMAN

"Water!" yelled some one on the other side of the road. Eric picked up the bucket and hurried over. "Sorry to disturb your royal highness," said the man, with an elaborate bow, "but walking in the park makes me thirsty."

Eric flushed and said nothing. It was not the warm weather and the long hours that made the job of carrying water for the road park hard for him. They all knew that as came of one of the best families in the town, and though many of them secretly felt admiration for his desire to make money for himself, they taunted him because he was not one of them. "Sir!" they mocked him. "They called him absurd nicknames. Some of them even threw dirt in his water bucket when his back was turned."

Eric wiped his forehead. The air was sultry. He was tired out. "Water!" yelled a burly young fellow, not much older than Eric. Eric hurried over. He set down the pail. The young man edged toward it, then, with pretended awkwardness, lost his balance and tumbled against the pail. Eric grabbed it, but not before it was half split. It was a long way to the water supply. Eric calmly picked up the pail and upset it over his tormentor's head. Work stopped, as the victim howled in some way. Eric stood off the pail and stamped, pulling the string of the pail over his head. "I'll show you," turned the boy once he was free. He took a step forward, but Eric, with unexpected swiftness, shot out a hard fist.

Eric stooped over and helped the bewildered fellow to his feet. "If he said anything about losing my temper," he said politely, and he quietly picked up his pail and walked off.

The men called him "the young gentleman" after that, but they meant it.

STERNA MIDGETS MAKE GREAT HIT AT OPENING OF WEEK AT MAJESTIC

La Crosse—or that part of it which attended the Majestic theater on Monday—voted the Sterna Midget revue which opened there for the rest of the week the oddest, most "different" entertainment which has been in the city in years.

With one exception every one of the actors in the show are tiny human beings, grown men and women in years but of the stature of four and five-year-old children. They sing, dance and otherwise entertain most charmingly. There is one little chap—gray-headed, mustached, for all he is about as big as Hop O' My Thumb—who plays the xylophone, and there are two clever clown comedians who have several turns which brings roars of laughter.

The hit of the show, perhaps, is a fairy-like mite of a girl who does to-dancing in classic premier danseuse style. Like most of the other actors in the piece she is perfectly formed in miniature, but for all her tiny size a most accomplished dancer. Her sister, of the same diminutive type, is also with the show as a dancer and singer. Both of the young women are pretty, and on the stage resemble nothing so much as two big live dolls.

One of the features of the show, also, are the ponies and Carrie, a small elephant that alongside of the tiny men and women seems positively huge.

In all, it is an entertainment that should appeal irresistibly to children, and to grown folks as well—to the children because of the doll-sized scale of its actors and the animals that perform, and to big folks because of the undoubted cleverness of the performers and the beautiful scenic effects with which the whole show is staged.

Naming the Baby.
"I've decided on a name for baby," said the young mother. "I shall call her Euphrosyne."

Her husband did not care for the suggestion; but being a tactful fellow he was far too wise to say so.

"I'm glad," he said cheerfully. "The first girl I ever loved was called Euphrosyne, and the name has very pleasant memories for me."

There was a brief silence. Then: "We will call her Elizabeth, after my mother," said the young wife, firmly.

ELEPHANT ATTACKS EXPLORER AKELEY IN WILDS OF AFRICA

Noted Sculptor and Taxidermist
Tells of Narrow Escape in Normal Lecture

GORILLA WOULD BE FRIEND OF MAN IF GIVEN CHANCE

Interesting Talk Marks Close of the Season's Course

Intimate glimpses into the native and animal life of the African jungles, thrilling and gripping tales of adventures in the heart of the "mystery" continent of the world, and a stirring plea for the conservation of the fast disappearing animal life of Africa were afforded by Carl Akeley, world famous big game hunter and animal sculptor, in his lecture, the final number of the normal school lecture course, which was delivered to a packed auditorium at the normal school Monday night.

Mr. Akeley, who is noted throughout the world for his work as an animal sculptor and taxidermist, does more hunting with a camera than with a gun. He shoots only when it is necessary to get a specimen, or when it is necessary to protect himself from the ferocious charges of the jungle beasts.

"People continually refer to central Africa as darkest Africa," complained the speaker, in the course of his talk, "when such is not the case at all. Africa is one of the brightest spots on the globe. The only dark spots on its surface are the blot placed there by civilization."

Seven Hundred Elephants

A vivid word picture of his impressions of the largest herd of elephants that he ever encountered on all of his expeditions, a herd that numbered two beasts, served as an introduction to his lecture and transported his audience across thousands of miles of space and into the heart of the jungle in one bound.

Mr. Akeley carries with him a complete set of pictures taken on his various hunting trips to the jungles. These show accurately the animals of the forests in their native haunts and were taken at a very great personal risk. Each slide brought forth an interesting story from the speaker.

A good indication that elephant hunting is an exceedingly dangerous pastime was given by Mr. Akeley when he told of how he had been attacked by a wild bull in the forest.

Attacked by Elephant

He had been trailing a herd of elephants and knew that he was close upon them. It was while he was examining his guns to see that they were in readiness that he was suddenly attacked from behind. He does not recall seeing the animal at first; he only knew that he was in danger and tried to shoot. He was struck a glancing blow by the curled trunk of the elephant and stunned. The blow ripped his cheek open, exposing his teeth through the wound. He can remember seizing the tusks of the attacking beast and being borne down with the immense weight of the elephant upon him, crushing his ribs, then all went black. He was pinned to the ground by the tusks, and all that saved him from being killed was

An Unfailing Way To Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes)
Tidy hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of depilatory and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed, and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real depilatory.

DEAD--FIFTEEN MINUTES!

The doctor had pronounced Mrs. Abbie Hart, of Hickmanville, York, England, dead, her heart and breathing had stopped. Her jaw had dropped. Fifteen minutes later when the doctor was expecting someone to call for the death certificate he was told she still lived. And here she is with her husband.

The fact that the tusks struck hard on earth or stone and were stopped, sent for his wife—who was in camp twenty miles away—but allowed him to lie there. Signs of returning life rushed out of him. He lay for six hours unconscious on the mountain, in a cold drizzling rain. His natives, belonging to a religious sect death by exposure. He was three months recuperating from the effects of his experience with the wild bull elephant.

Received by Blacks

Moving pictures of the reception afforded his party by a tribe of native blacks proved interesting. On the same reel are scenes of a lion spearing expedition. Spearing lions, in the opinion of Mr. Akeley is the most humane way of doing away with them, far preferable to shooting or poisoning. It is an extremely dangerous occupation however, and two of his native boys were severely injured on the trip shown in the reel. One was attacked by a leopard, mistaken for a lion, and the other mixed in single handed combat with a big lion and came out second best.

Remarkable pictures of approximately a million flamingoes in flight were also shown.

At the conclusion of his regular lecture, Mr. Akeley told the audience that if anyone wished to remain, he would tell of his last trip to Africa, made in the interest of the New York Museum of Natural History, to secure evidences of gorilla life. Three fourths of the audience stayed.

Gorilla is Not Wild.

"The gorilla is not naturally a wild and vicious beast," said Mr. Akeley. "He has been misrepresented by those who have seen him in his native habitat."

After killing several of the animals for specimens, Mr. Akeley was more than ever convinced that the gorilla is harmless and would be a friend of man if given a chance. He deplored the wholesale slaughter of them, and is behind a movement to have a sanctuary set aside for them in Africa, where they will be safe from man and where they will be able to live and propagate unmolested.

Mr. Akeley has but very recently returned from his last expedition. He landed in New York with his party on March 13, and has since made five speeches in the middle west. As soon as his lecture course is finished, he will return to New York to work upon his latest group, "African Hall," which is designed to perpetuate the rapidly disappearing animal life of Africa.

Prof. A. H. Sanford announced at the close of the lecture Monday night that the season's course had been a financial success this year. Last year the season ended with a deficit. This year finds the deficit made up.

An Undesirable Son-in-Law.

GAIN REPORTED IN LIST OF EMPLOYED PERSONS IN STATE

Eight Percent Increase Shown in Total Wages Paid to Workers

MADISON, Wis.—Increase of only one-half of one per cent in the total number of employees in Wisconsin factories and mines during February was noted by the industrial commission in its monthly report today on employment conditions.

There was said to have been a considerable increase in the number of persons employed in metal and wood working industries over the previous month. This increase was offset by decreases in the number employed in stone working, lead and zinc mining, railroad repair shops, leather and food products.

Total wages paid workers increased 8.7 per cent and average weekly 8.2 per cent. The greater amount of wages paid was said to be due to loss part time employment than in January.

The average weekly earnings during February were $21.11, an increase of $1.02 over January. Printing and publishing concerns paid the highest average weekly wages with $27.77, the commission reports. Other industries in which average weekly earnings are above $25 are stone finishing, railroad repair shops, miscellaneous metal manufacturing and chemicals.

The lowest average weekly earnings are in miscellaneous wood-manufacturing industries with $14.86 a week. Other industries in which the average weekly earnings are below $20 are saw and planing mills, box factories, paint and veneer mills, furniture, boots and shoes, hosiery and knit goods, packing and confectionery, laundries and dry cleaning.

As compared with July 1920, there has been a decrease of 32.9 per cent in the number of employees, 48.5 per cent in total wages and 22.7 per cent in the average weekly earnings, as shown by monthly reports furnished by the industrial commission by 211 manufacturing and mining companies who employ nearly one-third of the total employees in these industries in Wisconsin.

The only industries which do not show large decreases in working forces as compared with July 1920 are stamped metal goods, saw and planing mills, cash, door and interior finishing, leather, pulp and paper, textiles, meat packing, light and power, printing and publishing and laundries.

BY THEIR HAIR SHALL YE KNOW THEW; AT LEAST JUDGE GRAHAM SAYS SO

Judge Thomas F. Graham and actresses portraying the hair-dressing types that, he says, tell their own story.

BY THEIR HAIR SHALL YE KNOW THEW; AT LEAST JUDGE GRAHAM SAYS SO

BY GENE COHN
SAN FRANCISCO—It's all "in the way she does her hair!"

Superior Judge Thomas F. Graham, famed divorce court mediator, who has won the title of "the great reconciler," has concluded, after a considerable amount of experimentation, that considerable of a woman's character is betrayed by the particular way her locks are arranged.

He finds that he can almost invariably predict the part a woman sitting in his court room will play in a particular divorce action.

And here is his general schedule of how the hair betrays the type:

SPIT CURLS—Here is the jazz lady. Changes are the spit curl wasn't in evidence when she started jazzing around, but was acquired as a matter of course. It's to be found about cabarets and wherever the jazz hands play. Inclines to flappers'ism, flighty and very likely to be the defendant in a divorce action involving inconsistency.

BOBBED—Accompanied short skirts, cigarette, slacks, tan or shantung, bobbing—all so-called "modern girl" sort of thing. Indication of "advanced thought," ultra-modern theories.

MONA LISA—The kind with hair parted evenly in middle and falling in sleek order over the ears. She's the "career hunter"—the lady seeking her soul. Seemingly demure and generally not unbelieve.

EAR RUFFLES—Likely to have had too much betting and pampering at home. "The kind you'd expect to run home to mother if "friend husband" asked her to cook a meal.

MAILED WAVER—Disposition likely to resemble the hair—that is, artificial as rightly set as the curves of the hair and, hence, stubborn, unreasonable, etc.

HAIR DISHONORED—Runs, her house as she fixes her hair. Is likely to throw a dish or bring a rolling pin into play if a man were to complain about her bad housekeeping or her cooking.

Oh, yes—the judge adds—there is a type whose hair is soft and silky and combed without eccentricities; hair that seems to form almost a halo about the head; graceful and womanly.

"Only we don't see her in court very often," he says.

SENATE VOTES TO RAISE AMOUNT OF P. O. APPROPRIATION

Approves Increase for Federal Road Aid and Funds for Air Mail Service

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A difference of $63,300,000 in the amount of the postoffice appropriation bill as passed by the senate and house remained to be adjusted Tuesday between the two bodies. Of the increase approved by the senate in passing the bill late Monday after debate occasioned by several of its provisions, $50,000,000 is for federal highway aid. The bill also carries provisions for restoring to service the New York postoffice mail tubes and for continuing the New York to San Francisco air mail service.

An amendment increasing the number of postal inspectors from 420 to 520 was one of the senate centers of debate on the bill. Following a charge by Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, that the purpose was to make more places for republicans, the discussion ranged into the subject of postmaster appointments and culminated in the Mississippi senator calling on the president to supply the senate with the number of executive orders he has issued removing postoffices from civil service classification. The resolution went over under the rules.

KENOSHA HOLDS FIRST ELECTION UNDER NEW PLAN

At An Advantage

"You think motion picture show the actor at an advantage?"

"Definitely," replied Mr. Stormington Barnes, especially in some of the more primitive communities. When an actor appears only as a photograph the audience, while it may make unkind remarks, finds it absolutely useless to throw things."

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once and that is to dissolve it, then get rid of it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of plain, common liquid carbon from any drug store (this is all you will need) apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and itching of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

FARMERS ARE URGED TO SPRAY ORCHARDS BY MONROE AGENT

Little Seeking to Have Better Apple Crop this Season; Co-operation Sought in Move

SPARTA, Wis.—The fire company was called out Friday afternoon to a blaze in the Garret house, on West Central avenue, occupied by the family of Ira Homstock. The upper story was damaged, but most of the furniture was removed by neighbors.

A variety of extra fine grass seed has been shipped into Sparta, for the first time in the history of Monroe county. The car cost more than six thousand dollars. It consists of medium and medium, Alsike, Alfalfa, German and common, sweet, Turkish and timothy, every pound of which is Radger brand. The seed has been carefully tested for purity and germination, and is of a high quality.

To Spray Orchards

Through the efforts of the county agricultural agent, E. L. Liddle, a movement is on foot among the farmers of Monroe county to have their orchards sprayed this season, thus insuring a better crop of apples, and saving the waste that exists each year from insects and disease. The county agent would like to arrange with some one to do this work, who has a spraying outfit, or would be willing to get one. He has asked that all farmers who are interested in this movement, would communicate with him, or call upon him at his office in the court house.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nina Frederick, 517 East Franklin street. The subject for discussion and study is "Local Politics," and will be handled by Miss Belle Ady, leader. An open discussion will follow. Every one interested in the work of this organization is requested to be present.

Poor Farm Buys Holstein Sire
F. J. Mooney, superintendent of the county poor farm, has returned home from Oconomowoc, where he purchased a pure bred Holstein sire from the Hubst stock farm for the fine herd on the county farm. The sire of this calf "Creator," is one of the highest priced bulls in existence, costing $75,500. The dam of the calf has a yearly record at three years of age, of 900 pounds of butter and 19,800 pounds of milk. Also a record for 14 pounds of butter in 7 days for a three-year-old.

Mrs. Addie De Long, formerly of Sparta, now Mrs. Clifford Huntley of Elroy, has just received a signal honor in a literary way. Mrs. Huntley has been invited to become a member of the Wisconsin Authors' association. For several years she contributed articles for magazines and periodicals, and it was through her work in this way, that attention was attracted to her, by the secretary of the association. About this same time, Mrs. Huntley was informed that she had been adjudged winner in the house plan contest conducted by the Ladies' Home Journal, securing second prize in the central division, consisting of the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Michigan and Wisconsin.

FY ROX GIBBONS
CHICAGO.—"Downes & Downes, Attorneys-at-Law."

You'll see that sign on the glass door of a suite in a downtown office building.

Father and son?
Two brothers?
No, mother and daughter—a new thing in partnerships!

The partners are Mrs. Joanna E. Downes and her daughter, Miss Margaret Downes. Both are practicing attorneys.

Both believe that the day isn't far distant when mothers will pass their businesses and professional practices on to their daughters as fathers do now to their sons.

Said they think, we'll see everywhere signs like "Mrs. John Smith & Daughter," or "Mrs. Robert Roe's Daughters."

New Adage Soon
"Like mother like daughter" soon will be a familiar adage," Mrs. Downes says.

"Fathers in days gone by always transmitted to their sons all they had acquired in their lifetimes.

"Why shouldn't women do the same for their daughters, now that women are forging ahead in business and the professions?"

"I reared my daughter from a baby and now it's only logical I should give her all the help I can to make her successful in our profession."

Miss Downes, junior, member of the firm, who just passed the state bar examinations, is enthusiastic over the partnership.

"Who can be a better guide than your own mother?" she says. "I know I'll succeed under mother's training, for everything she's ever told me has been right."

Miss Margaret Downes, who has entered a law partnership with her mother, Mrs. Joanna E. Downes (below).

SAYS WOMAN IS A SLAVE IF SHE WEBS OUTSIDE HER TRIBE

Mrs. McCormick Traces Progress of Sex at Chicago Club Meeting

CHICAGO, Ill.—Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., tracing the progress of women, here Monday, told representatives of women's organizations that "if a woman marries outside of her own clan or tribe, she'll be a slave. History proves it."

The meeting at which Mrs. McCormick spoke was preliminary to the Woman's Progress Exposition to be held here June 3 to 10. The engagement of Mrs. McCormick's 16-year-old daughter Mathilde to Max Oser, Swiss riding academy professor, recently was announced.

"An odder thing," Mrs. McCormick said, "if a man were born with the women of his own tribe, he went and stole a wife from another clan."

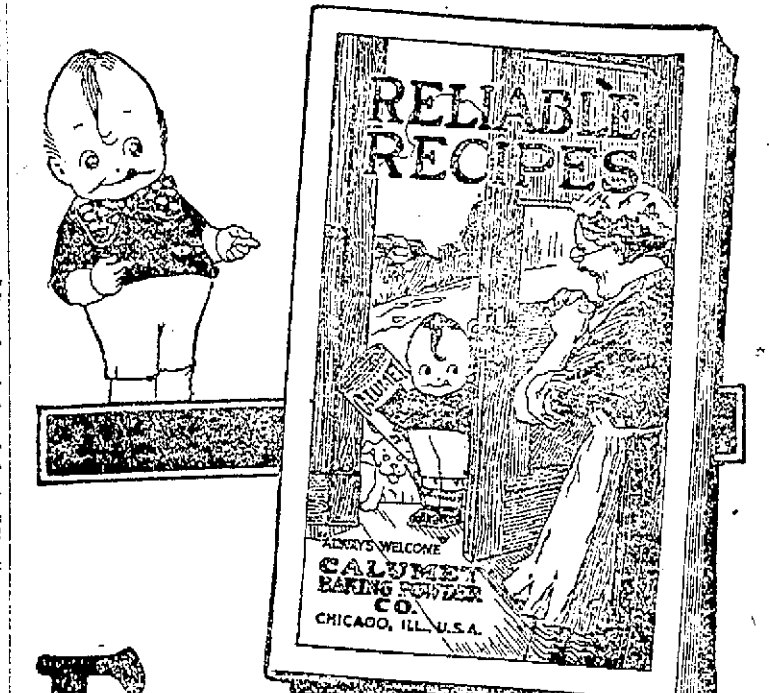

The stolen bride had a sorry time of it, according to Mrs. McCormick, who said the women of the men's tribe always hated the alien bride, who consequently had to depend for happiness entirely upon her husband, to whom she was virtually a slave.

"All the modern woman wants is to be let alone, to develop to demonstrate and to expand," she said.

UTILITY SUES STATE RAIL COMMISSION FOR GAS RATE REDUCTION

Valuation Fixed on Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls Properties Unfair Says Company

MADISON, Wis.—Suits against the state railroad commission were started Monday by the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company because of recent gas reductions made by the commission in the cities of Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls. Suit was filed in the circuit court of Dane county and the commission, represented by the Attorney General, has twenty days in which to answer the summons.

The complaint in the case of Chippewa Falls sets forth that $157,000 is not a fair valuation of the plant, its intangible element of going value nor does it include the cash working capital of the plant; that the order reducing the rate of return not to exceed 6 percent per annum is unlawful; that the order operates to deprive the company of its property without due process of law.

In the case of the Eau Claire property the company alleges that the valuation fixed by the commission of $200,255 is too low and makes the same complaints as it does in the Chippewa Falls case.

The complaint was served by the firm of Olin, Butler, Thomas, Stebbins, and Strand, Madison lawyers, for the Wisconsin-Minnesota concern.

The Railroad Commission reduced the gas rates in both cities on an average of 15 cents per month following an investigation on its own initiative. The reduction was made Feb. 28th.

PACIFIC COTTON MILLS ANNOUNCES WAGE REDUCTION

LAWRENCE, Mass.—The Pacific Mills, a cotton and worsted plant employing 10,000 persons normally, Tuesday announced a wage reduction of approximately two per cent. Two other large plants here were understood to be preparing a similar announcement for issuance later in the day. The Pacific cut, effective March 27, is the first in the big textile center since the movement of wage revision began this year. It is one of the few made in Massachusetts mills to date.

Better than jewels —that schoolgirl complexion

Take a lesson from Cleopatra

With a world of ancient beauty arts at her command, she depended on cleansing with Palm and Olive oils to protect, improve and preserve the freshness and smoothness of her skin.

This beautifying was not confined to the face alone. The bath was a daily ceremonial with all ancient peoples, and palm and olive oils the cleansers used.

The girl with a clear, smooth skin, radiant with freshness and natural color, should leave jewels to those less fortunate, for she doesn't need them. The charm of a perfect natural complexion attracts far more than elaborate dress and ornaments.

If your complexion lacks the beauty which women envy and men admire, don't depend on clothes and jewelry to draw attention from its defects.

Every woman can transform her bad complexion into a good one, for alluring freshness and clear color isn't a gift of Nature, but a matter of care.

How to have a perfect skin

No girl need be afflicted with a bad complexion, for improvement is simple and easy. Daily cleansing, gentle but thorough, is the secret.

You must use soap, for nothing will remove the dirt, oil and perspiration which collects in the pores and causes most skin trouble.

Choose Palmolive, because its action is soothing. Harsh soap should never be used for washing the face.

Massage the smooth, creamy lather gently into the skin until it removes all clogging deposits. Don't forget your neck and throat. They are as conspicuous as the face for any lack in beauty.

Careful rinsing leaves the skin stimulated, freshened and free from the accumulation which enlarges the pores, causes blackheads and carry infection.

Do this every day

There is too much dirt and dust where most of us live to make it advisable to neglect this cosmetic cleansing even for a day. Powder should be removed, and rouge, if you use it. They combine with dirt and skin secretions in dangerous clogging.

Dry skins are benefited by cold cream after cleansing. If unusual dryness is your trouble, apply a little before, as well as after washing.

Blended from the same oils

Palmolive Soap is blended from the same bland soothing oils which adorned the sumptuous marble baths of Egyptians, Greeks and Romans.

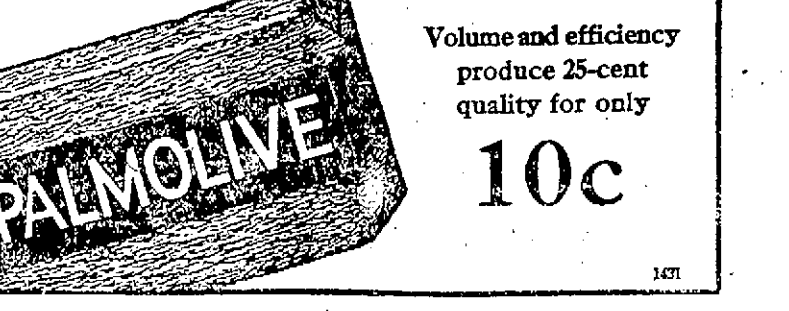

Modern scientists, with all their research, have not been able to discover milder, more soothing, or more efficient soap ingredients.

But although very expensive, the gigantic volume in which Palmolive is produced keeps the price very low. Users profit by Palmolive popularity.

The Palmolive factories, working day and night, and the importation of the rare oils in vast quantities, allow you to enjoy this finest facial soap for the modest price of 10 cents—no more than ordinary soap.

DUNBAR TO BRING OPERA FOLLIES--A NEW TYPE OF REVUE

Notable Singing and Laughing
Show to be Seen Here
Next Sunday

Manager Koppelberger of the La Crosse Theatre has just booked by wire for appearance here another and night next Sunday the Dunbar Opera Follies, a production of The American Opera Association Inc., of which the resourceful Ralph Dunbar is the artistic director.

The "Follies" is a revue of quality, but offered at prices in accord with conditions prevailing in business generally. It is said fully to meet the demands of those who nowadays expect and receive full value for every cent expended, especially that which goes for entertainment. It offers a galaxy of opera singers from Mr. Dunbar's numerous productions, comedians from the ranks of vaudeville and musical comedy, several notable vaudeville acts intact, a troupe of wonderful dancers, a famous singing band and a contingent of charming girls.

The revue presents seven magnificent scenic settings and is the latest word in musical shows that really entertain. As one recently expressed it, "It's the show we've been waiting for, for it makes us forget our troubles, and is such an exhilarating stimulant as we have not had for many moons."

THE NEW CAPITAL OF INDIA

The new capital of India is now being built just south of Delhi. Although Delhi is the site of many ancient capitals the present city dates from the reign of Shah Jahan, the greatest of the Mogul emperors. The new capital city when completed will cover approximately thirty-six thousand acres, and will house more than fifty thousand people connected with the administration of the imperial government. A few years ago Australia also undertook to create a new capital city. Canberra, and the architect, who was selected through competition, was an American. Owing to political influences, however, Melbourne still remains the seat of government, and work on the new city of Canberra languishes.

"Please tell me the names of your visitors," said the editor of the Pecunia Argosy over the telephone. "How did you know we had visitors?" asked the social lioness. "Why, there's some foreign clothes out on your line this morning," replied the observing editor. —Kansas City Star.

A HOME-MADE GRAY HAIR REMEDY

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary. Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

In The MOVIES

MARY PICKFORD—RIVOLI

You will laugh uproariously, and you will cry when you see Mary Pickford in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" at the Rivoli. And you will say that it is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of photographs ever shown. In transferring Frances Hodgson Burnett's famous story to the silver screen, Miss Pickford has established her claim to the title, "Queen of the Screen," for the essence of the book version has been retained and the charm of Little Mary's interpretations pleases beyond measure.

Never in her career of superb work has Mary Pickford done anything approaching the artistry in this production. The closest she ever came to it was in that masterpiece, "Stella Maris," in which, as in "Fauntleroy," she played a dual role. Miss Pickford's presentation of the two characters, Dearest, the mother, and Cedric Kerol, who later becomes Lord Fauntleroy, sets a new mark for things cinematic. Unquestionably this picture pushes the film industry ahead many leagues. In fact, a new goal has been set for all other products to strive for.

The story of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" is too well known to be repeated here. Suffice it to say that the Pickford adaptation adheres very closely to the Burnett plot, with the result that none who have read the book will take offense at the play. What is more, Mary Pickford is a decidedly boyish Fauntleroy, curls and all. One actually forgets she is a girl.

"LOVE NEVER DIES"—MAJESTIC

A country town that abhors Sunday but loves to gossip about it furnishes the motive for "Love Never Dies," which is showing at the Majestic theatre. That the gossiping matrons of a small village there is nothing more destructive to domestic happiness and when, to this element, there is added an ineffectual coachman, who always delivers messages incorrectly, the setting is complete. King Victor has furnished a very human atmosphere for his latest success. He takes his characters from the rural surroundings; and Lloyd Hughes, the leading young man, finds his happiness jeopardized by the malicious tongues around him. The fact that there is a certain amount of truth in the rumors makes it impossible for him to answer. Despite the brief characterization, "Love Never Dies" is far from the run of domestic dramas. The story bears out the title of the picture in visualizing a plot of enduring love that refuses to be downed.

Probably the strongest and most distinguished cast ever assembled for any picture in the history of the screen, is seen in the Rex Ingram production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," now showing at the Riviera Theatre.

While every player of the twenty-five principal roles was selected because of his or her special ability to enact the part, there is scarcely a name in the list that is not prominently known to motion picture followers.

Rudolph Valentino, who has the role of Julio, the romantic South American hero of the story, has been in pictures for several years. Previous to going into pictures, Mr. Valentino was a professional dancer.

Alice Terry is enacting the leading feminine role, that of Marguerite, the little French girl. Alice Terry played in the Metro production of "Shore Acres," featuring Alice Lake.

GLADYS ROBINSON LOWERS 2 RECORDS IN MILWAUKEE EVENT

Skating Fans Thrilled Galore at Opening of Three-Day Amateur Tournament

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Indoor skating fans got thrilled galore at the opening of the three-day amateur championship tournament here Monday night and are expecting more fireworks Tuesday night when the second series of events will be run. The sensation of Monday night was Gladys Robinson, Toronto, who set new world's records in the girls' 220 yard and one mile events. Joe Moore, New York, was the star of the senior event with two prizes to his credit.

JACK DEMPSEY TO DEFEND HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE ON FOREIGN SOIL AGAINST JOE BECKETT, CARPENTIER AND ONE OTHER

CHICAGO, Ill.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, will defend his title on foreign soil sometime this summer against Joe Beckett, Georges Carpentier, and some other fighter to be selected by Charles Cochran, the London promoter.

This was the principal item of news gleaned from the champion Monday when he passed through Chicago on his way to California to visit his parents and get together some belongings to take to Europe. Dempsey had a few comments about heavyweights fighters in this country, but amended his remarks by saying none were good enough to meet him.

To Sail April 11

According to present plans the Dempsey party will sail from New York on April 11. Aside from contracting to make three fights for Cochran the champion has not signed for any theatrical tours. This piece of business is in the hands of Manager Jack Kearns, who expects to complete the itinerary before sailing time.

"I am sorry I have to go to Europe to defend my title," the champion said. "I would prefer to fight in America, but as there are no fighters of note to meet me, I must go where suitable opponents and purses are offered."

Harry Greb Too Small

"The result of the Tom Gibbons-Harry Greb bout was a disappointment to me. I had hoped Gibbons would win, but all the time I favored Greb, who is a great little fighter, but too small to meet me. In a few years he may be ready. A match with Harry Wills is practically out of the question. The public is not demanding it, and promoters know it would not be an attractive fight. As for Bill Tate, the fight fans know what I did to him when he was my sparring partner, and they would not turn out to see a real fight between us."

"I beat Carpentier before and can turn the trick again. Joe Beckett should be easy, and I have no fear of any other man Cochran selects. I am not afraid I will lose the championship, but when the time comes for me to be knocked off, I want an American to do it."

Spring Training Gossip

CHICAGO, Ill.—Pat Moran has made public the names of the eight pitchers who will be carried on the regular string of the Cincinnati Reds this season, says word from the training camp Tuesday. Eppa J. Rixey, the elongated southerner, is the only port-sider in the act, the other members of which are: Luque, Scott, Doolittle, Couch, Markin, Schmidt and Gillespie.

Kid Gleason, slated over the Sox successes in their games with the Giants, said that he will begin within a week to allow his pitchers to travel the full nine innings in exhibition games. The work of the beating personnel has bolstered his hopes for the season greatly.

The Giants finish their training at San Antonio Friday when they begin a barnstorming tour which includes resumption of the inter-league series with the White Horse. Both St. Louis clubs plan to leave their training camps this week, starting north for several exhibition games.

Miller Huggins, say news dispatches from New Orleans, is spending a new crop of gray locks over the weakness of his Yanks. The outfield as "amounts to a tragedy" of the infield is inclined to look at important points and the plucking staff thus far has failed to comprehend the value of control. Because of these things, Mr. Huggins is clinging to several rookies who otherwise would be on their way home.

BRINGING UP FATHER

A CALL TO DUTY

It is the sacred duty of every normal person today to know how to save life in the water. Drowning accidents occur under varying conditions, and no age, sex or class of society is exempt from this danger. The suddenness of death is remarkable. When the immersed person is unable to swim, or when no means of rendering assistance is at hand, often only a few moments pass before all is over. In the United States and Canada every year there are from 20,000 to 25,000 accidents involving the possible loss of life. Clearly the average man is certain some day to be called upon to render help. No man prepares for an emergency in a moment, and unless one has had previous study and practice, he must stand idly by, in the presence of a drowning or other accident, willing to do anything in his power, but unable to give the least assistance.

The Loss of Life is Frightful
The loss of life from drowning in individual communities varies with the length of the city water front, and the amount of protection provided for the citizens. In New York city, with its hundreds of miles of water front, accidental drowning, instead of increasing with the amazing growth of population and the extended interest in water sports is decreasing at a rate of twenty persons a year. In a large measure this is due to the efficient work of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps and the more widespread knowledge of life saving. In the United States and Canada we face the appalling fact that between 6,000 and 7,000 lives are lost annually by drowning. The destruction of an American battleship and crew, scattered our nation and precipitated the war with Spain; and yet drowning fatalities destroy the lives of enough men every two months to man our largest warship. This goes on continuously while we sit back as mere on-lookers.

Few Can Render Assistance
The largest factor in this frightful loss of life is that so few men today are prepared to render assistance. The percentage of men who are able to swim is very small, and out of the thousands who know how to swim, fewer still have any definite and clear idea as to the method of procedure in case of an accident in the water. Many a man, with no knowledge of the methods of rescue, heroically but foolishly has lost his own life in the endeavor to save a drowning person. Today not more than one out of every two hundred young men of the United States and Canada, between the ages of eighteen and thirty, has a clear idea of the principles of life saving. If the loss of life is to be reduced, this percentage of men equipped to give aid must be increased. To this end there must be a close study of the methods now used to break the different types of holds by which drowning persons grasp a rescuer, followed by the application of these methods in definite practice.

Looked at on the economic side alone, the question is a serious one. If we take the figures of Professor Irving Fisher of Yale and appraise each life lost at only $1,700, and each man's average earnings for a year at only $700, the economic gain to be obtained from preventing this enormous loss of life by drowning exceeds ten millions of dollars annually. Far greater urgency is given to the problem.

DYED HER FADED SKIRT TO MAKE CHILD A DRESS

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman can dye or tint faded, shabby skirts, dresses, waists, coats, sweaters, stockings, blouses, draperies, everything like new. Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed, even if you have never dyed before. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. Diamond Dyes never streak, spot, fade, or run.

When one thinks of the higher values that are lost when a young man, just equipped for his life's work, is drowned simply because no one who knows how to rescue him is near. One should strive to become proficient in swimming, if only for selfish reasons. There is hardly a time in a man's life when the thrill of achievement so stimulates him and fills him with righteous pride, as when single-handed he has saved the life of someone, who except for his efforts, would have been drowned.

Confidence in the Water

Swimming is an art that has no superior for the development and preservation of health. Its practice produces most beneficial results upon the respiratory organs and thereby aids the circulation and purification of the blood. It also greatly stimulates and strengthens the muscular and mental capacity. As a pastime it has few equals. The pleasure of swimming, whether outdoors or in a bathorium, can be appreciated only by the good swimmer. The average man tires after a few yards have been covered, and he experiences but little of the exhilaration that comes to an expert, as he glides swiftly and smoothly through the water. To get real enjoyment and pleasure out of swimming, one must be able to secure the greatest amount of good with the smallest expenditure of energy. In other words, he must be able to swim and not merely to struggle through the water for a given distance.

There have been volumes written telling the beginner how to learn to swim, and although many methods are advocated by different writers, it is believed that the first essential is to develop confidence in the water. After the preliminary fear of this element is taken away, swimming becomes simply the learning of new muscle co-ordinations for the stroke that is being taught. It has often been said that swimming is 98 per cent mental and 2 per cent co-ordination of muscle. It has been demonstrated often when instruction is given to a large group of young men at a time, that the timid lad gains confidence from his aggressive companion and will mimic the antics of the bolder boy and will unconsciously find himself swimming.

At the La Crosse Normal, Saturday, March 18, sixty-eight boys were given instruction with fifteen boys in the pool at a time. The boys were given accurate instruction and then told to demonstrate. The enthusiasm of the majority caused the few who had fear in their hearts, to forget their doubts and plunge in with the rest.

PIMPLES ON FACE OVER A YEAR

Hard and Red. Face Disfigured. Cuticura Heals.

"I was bothered with pimples on my face and forehead for over a year. They were hard and red and feasted and scaled over. The pimples itched and burned so badly that I could not sleep at night, and when I scratched them they formed scales. My face was disfigured. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and when I had used one cake of Soap and one box of Ointment I was healed." At the close of the swimming period the group was instructed how to dive from the spring board. It was astonishing to find that every one of the sixty-eight boys left the spring board, some with very awkward dives, but it showed that they had confidence in their instructors and the matter of fear had been entirely eliminated. Next Saturday, all boys in the city who are weak on swimming, will report at 9 o'clock at the Normal.

QUESTIONNAIRE IS "FAKE"
MADISON, Wis.—That a questionnaire sent out from Beloit to the high schools of the state under the alleged direction of the graduate school of the university is a "fake" is the opinion of Charles S. Schlichter, dean of the graduate school. He says such a questionnaire has not been authorized and asks the high schools to disregard it.
